Biography

Jessica Martinez is 25, and a single mother to a lovely five year old daughter, Kayla. She is a first-generation high school graduate and college student. She has received the President's Honors award and has completed the nursing assistant course. In May, she will receive her first Associate of Applied Science in Medical Assisting.

Her education in nurse assisting has provided her with insight and knowledge to help those in need as a patient and resident advocate. Jessica's goal is to encourage those around her to improve their lives and provide hope, inspiration, and motivation.

She believes that completing a degree has been one of the best decisions she can make for her daughter and herself. Her plans are to continue her education to become a nurse and work with hospice care. She is determined to invest her time and effort in working with Incarnate Word University, to pursue a Bachelor's degree in Nursing.

This triumph had made Jessica a better person and role model not only for her daughter, but for her family. She owes much of her success to them and feels truly blessed to have such a great family that has contributed so much to her completing graduation.
