Student Success

SPC Students Build San Antonio's First Solar-Powered Food Court

St. Philip's College (SPC) Southwest Campus Electrical Trades and Power Generation students, with resources provided by Microsoft Corporation and Mission Solar Energy, built San Antonio's only solar-powered food truck court, supporting up to three food trucks at one time. Under Master Electrician Steve Perez, the transformer class gained knowledge and practical experience in how to transform 208v three phase to 240v three phase. Food trucks at SWC can now rely on a wind turbine for energy.

SPC Student Earns 'Black Nurses Rock' Scholarship

St. Philip's College (SPC) Homecoming Queen and Occupational Therapy Assistant Program student, Leianna Bell, was recently awarded a $1,000 scholarship from Black Nurses Rock, Inc. Charlotte Davis, CEO of Black Nurses Rock, Inc. toured the Center for Health Professions with Vocational Nursing Instructor Barbara Govan.

Performance Excellence

SPC HIT Program is 'Best in the South'

St. Philip's College (SPC) Health Information Technology Program was ranked #4 in the nation by Intelligent.com for having one of the Best Registered Health Information Technician degree programs in 2022. SPC was also named "Best in the South." Over 150 college and university HIT programs were evaluated and 27 were included on the list.

Principle-Centered Leadership
